

TINLEY PARK MEN ARE VINDICATED

GRAND JURY DISMISSES CASE OF GRECO AGAINST V. H. SCHEER AND
MARSHALL FRED SCHMEDIKNECHT

V. H. Scheer, well known concrete manufacturer and Marshall Fred Schmediknecht, both of Tinley Park have been vindicated by the action of the Cook County Grand Jury in dismissing the case of Joe Greco also of Tinley Park against them on the ground of insufficient evidence.

About a year ago Greco caused the arrest of both men on the charge that they had mistreated his daughter Mary. Both men denied the charge, but had to give bail bond and were given a hearing in the court of Judge David Shapiro in Chicago Heights, but after Greco had asked for several continuances, Judge Shapiro dismissed the case.

Later Mr. Scheer and Mr. Schmediknecht were again required to put up bonds and finally the case came up at Oak Park the past summer. It is said the judge only heard the side of Greco and recommended that both men be bound over to the grand jury. When the two cases came up before the grand jury on Monday and Tuesday of this week, the jury found that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant any action on their part, so the case was dismissed and thus ends one of the most notorious cases Tinley Park has had in many years. The case was continued for six times.

The defendants have been thoroughly vindicated by the action of the grand jury say their friends. Both men have lost much time, had to spend much money in defending themselves to say nothing of the worry and anguish caused their families. Their many friends feel that this was one of the most contemptible acts that have ever occurred in Tinley Park. Here are two well known men of the community and suddenly their characters are besmirched and stamped in the mud and people who were once friends turned their backs on them, but now things stand in a different light. In commenting on the case Attorney Francis A. Harper of Tinley Park who has been representing Mr. Schmediknecht, declared he was well pleased with the way the case went and said in his estimation the whole thing was a frameup.

Mr. Scheer was represented by Attorney Simon Ferr, one of the best criminal lawyers in Chicago. In addition to Attorney Harper, Mr. Schmediknecht was also represented by Charles Erbsstein, one of the most widely known lawyers of Chicago.

The village board of Tinley Park suspended Mr. Schmediknecht as village marshal to await the outcome of the case.

Wm. Yunker in Auto Accident

While going to church last Sunday in his Hubmobile eight, accompanied by his niece, Alma Yunker, Wm. Yunker of Orland had quite a serious accident.

As they neared the bridge near the Frank Sayers home, the car skidded hitting the bridge and turning over in the ditch along side the road which had 5 feet of water.

The car was quite badly damaged but fortunate no one was hurt. Mr. John Sayers pulled the car out of the ditch with a tractor.

Mokena Farm
Sold for $30,000

Charles Geuther of Mokena sold his farm now occupied by Louis Johnson, the past week to a Chicago realtor for $30,000 or an average of $206 per acre. This establishes a new record for farm values in this section. Just what purpose the realtors are going to use the farm for is not known.

Slayer of Former Frankfort Pastor
Gets Life Term

Warren Vandervoort, 17 year old son of Rev. S. J. Vandervoort one time pastor of the Frankfort and Mokena M. E. churches, who shot and killed his father several months ago and also shot and seriously injured his mother at their home in Parkersburg, Iowa, has just been sentenced to life imprisonment at Fort Madison. His mother pleaded for leniency at his trial, but without success.

Young Vandervoort claimed his father and mother could not get along very well and the family jangle got on his nerves and that day he bought a shotgun and that night shot both his parents as they were sleeping and then attempted to escape but was quickly arrested. The youthful murderer was born in Frankfort in the M. E. parsonage.

Wm. Lang, Old
Mokena Resident
Claimed by Death

Wm. Lange, aged 84, impulse resident of Mokena, died Monday morning, October 20, of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Hacker following an attack of summer flu. His wife passed away about 7 months ago. He was born in Germany and after coming to this country he resided in and around Mokena.

Funeral services were held from the late home Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock, with burial in St. John cemetery. Rev. William Kreis of the St. John Evangelical church officiating. The deceased is survived by his daughter, Mrs. C. Hacker of Mokena.

Tinley Park Farm
Sold for $151,000

Farm land values in Bremen township are breaking all records. The past week John Koehler sold a farm at Coopers Grove to a Chicago realtor for $151,000 or at the rate of $75 per acre. Theodore Hubustosek has sold his farm property at the corner of 167th for a fancy price. Two parcels of 80 acres brought $950 per acre and 40 acres across the road brought $900 per acre. Wm. Koehler has been offered over $700 an acre for his farm but has refused the offer. Farms in the vicinity of Matteson have reached record smashing prices. One farm was bought for $1500 per acre and resold for the sum of $2750 per acre.

There is no more farm land along the Illinois Central from Homewood to Monee. In a few years more farms in this section will only be a memory.

News-Bulletin
Display Advt.
Brings Big Returns

How would you like to invest $23 and get $280 back on your investment? Well that is the way in which News-Bulletin advertising pays dividends. Clarence Beagley, well known radio dealer and electrician of Orland ran a large display adv. in the News-Bulletin Seventy Anniversary number. This adv. cost Mr. Beagley $23 but it pulled in a $280 wiring job for him. Mr. Beagley is a firm believer in News-Bulletin advertising.

Sure it pays to advertise in the News-Bulletin.

Liberia Loses
in Second Round

For the second time in the last two weeks the promoters of the proposed negro colony in the vicinity of Frankfort and New Lenox have received a setback in the courts of this county.

About two weeks ago the promoters claiming to own land east of Frankfort were denied a petition for an injunction restraining Sheriff Walker, A. H. Krusemark, local attorney, and the citizens' committee of Frankfort from interfering with the sale of lots.

Recently Judge Hill sustained a demurrer to the bill filed by the Liberia Land Development Company asking that the court compel Frank E. Chamberlin to carry out the terms of an alleged contract which would give the colonization promoters title to 446 acres of land east of New Lenox.

The promoters of the colony scheme claimed in their bill, which was filed months ago, that Mr. Chamberlin gave them an option on his property and that they stood ready and willing to take up that option but had been prevented from doing so because Chamberlin did not deliver a copy of the abstract that they might examine the title of the land.

Irving Shutts, representing Mr. Chamberlin, appeared before Judge Hill and argued in support of his demurrer, pointing out that in the copy of option included in the bill filed by the colony promoters there was no mention of an abstract, and added that no agreement had been made under which Mr. Chamberlin agreed to allow the Liberia backers to have a copy of the abstract to his property before they took up the option.

The option period expired and no money was paid to Mr. Chamberlin, Mr. Shutts declared.

The court then ruled in favor of the defendants.

Mokena School
Shows Good Work

Friday October 16 closed the first six weeks period of the present school year of the Mokena schools.

The following is a list of the students who have maintained high averages during this time.

Under the supervision of Prof. Lathrop in the High school the five highest are:

Lucille Warning	95.25
Mildred Woodrich	95
Erna Yunker	94.75
Carrie Hensel	94
Clyde Knudson	93.75

The two highest in each class are Freshmen—Clyde Knudson 93.75 and Elizabeth Lynk 90.25. Sophomores—Iva Spiecker 90.75 and Carlos Hall 89.25. Juniors—Lucille Warning 95.25 and Mildred Woodrich 95.

The high grades for the Junior High school room under the supervision of Miss Luetta Darling are: First Honor Roll

Marcella Coyne	93
Charlotte Geuther	91.3
Almira Koeller	90
Second Honor Roll
Mildred Butler	89.6
Velma Klose	89.5
Francis Moriarty	88.4
Herta Muehler	88
Fern Liess	87.8
Eleanor Lauffer	87.1
Angelina Homerding	86.3
Edith Spiess	86.1

The high school has maintained an average of 84.88 for the first six weeks period and that is very satisfactory. Our third year is more than doing justice to itself and we have gotten along without it for so long. We are looking forward to not only maintaining our good school average but to raising it a few points so that by the end of the current semester it will have reached at least 87. Here is to more success to each class in its competition with the others.

Forest Preserve
Movement Started
For Will County

Timber land in Will County is fast disappearing, and at the rate that the timber has been cut in this county within the past few years it will be only a matter of a short time before very little if any of the woodlands will be left.

In order to conserve what little timberland remains, the Rotary Club of Joliet has initiated a move to start a Will County Forest Preserve along the same lines as that of Cook County.

In order to get this movement before the people of the county a year's educational campaign is to be conducted. After this an election may be called to create a county forest preserve patterned along the lines of the Cook County Preserves.

The first move in this direction was made last Friday night when the Rotary Club gave a dinner in the Isabella Room of the Association of Commerce building and to which city and village officials and newspaper men were invited. At the close of the dinner an interesting and educational address illustrated with beautifully colored slides was given by H. N. Wheeler, chief lecturer of the United States Forestry Service. He made a strong plea for reforestation and showed in a striking manner the wanton destruction of timber one of the country's biggest assets.

Mr. Wheeler, who has been in the forestry service 20 years, starting as a ranger, declared that while most people do not take the forestation is grave, with the amount of available timber decreasing yearly.

"Most people think that there will always be enough timber," Mr. Wheeler said, "but statistics show that $12,000,000 was spent in freight bills alone last year shipping lumber from the north woods, and the supply there is being rapidly depleted.

"History shows that no country can prosper after its timber is gone. Persia, Syria and other countries are among those whose decay is partly attributed to deforestation."

Forests are sponges, the forestry lecturer pointed out, holding the water and preventing floods. China each year has disastrous floods, due to the fact that it has been deforested.

"National forests are a step in the right direction," Mr. Wheeler said, "but they do not solve the forestry problem. We must have national, state, county, city and individual forests, and it will be unnecessary to take the farm land, as there is plenty of soil unsuited for tilling that is ideal for growing trees."

Mr. Wheeler appealed to the Rotarians to exercise extreme care in traveling thru forests in the north or in timber lands of the middle west so as to avoid starting fires, declaring that millions are lost annually thru forest fires.

Mr. Wheeler's address was also broadcast by station WOLS, the Boston Store Station.

Notice

I wish to announce that I now occupy the former Zumstein building and am fully settled and ready for business. Received a fine line of new goods, that are pleasing to young and old. Come and see for yourself before going elsewhere. Thanking you sincerely for past patronage and hoping to retain such in the future.

Yours for Service.

Oak Lawn
Police Make
Cleanup Raids

The Oak Lawn Police raided Tribblebloski and got 13 gallons of moonshine, a 25 gallon still, 150 gallons of mash and machinery from the still in the basement.

Mr. Tribblebloski was arrested and put under $2,000 bonds. The raid was conducted by Chief of Police Eichler and Officer Cleveland and O'Brien, after they had obtained a search warrant from Judge Aulwurm and O'Brien.

On October 19 the Police force of Oak Lawn raided Sluvinski in Oak Lawn and found in his barn a still, 40 gallons of mash and 3 qts. of moonshine. Mr. Sluvinski was arrested and put under $500 bonds.

Chief Eichler has a list of other law breakers and drives are being made to clear the town of any who are making liquors or anything pertaining to breaking the Volstead Act.

Seize $15,000 Still
In Frankfort Twp.,
Past Week, Report

Rumor has it that a $15,000 still was seized by Prohibition Agents in a raid on a farm east of Frankfort the past week. It is understood that the still was located in a barn.

A prominent politician is said to be connected with the case.

When States Attorney Renn of Will County was asked about the raid he expressed surprise, saying he had not heard of the affair.

The office of the Prohibition Director in the Federal Building in Chicago stated that the agents of that department had seized a still in Frankfort township last week, but as the agents had not made a full detailed statement of the raid they were unable to say where the still was seized or the amount of booze taken.

It is rumored that efforts are being made to flush up the affair.

Cupid is Busy
At Oak Lawn

A very pretty wedding was solemnized October 7th at the home of the brides' parents, when Miss Edna Schultz became the bride of Jake Leppin, Rev. Brockhaus performing the ceremony.

The home was beautifully decorated in ferns, roses and crepe paper bells, the wedding vows being taken under a bower of ferns and roses.

"I HATE YOU!"

SYNOPSIS.—Living in the small English village of Darbury, old-fashioned and sedate place, Barbara Stockley, daughter of a widowed mother, is soon to celebrate her marriage to Hugh Rochdale, rich and well connected. Barbara is adventurous, and has planned, with an aunt, an airplane trip to Australia. Major Alan Croft, famous as an aviator, is to be the pilot. At her first meeting with Croft, Barbara is attracted by his manner and conversation, different from the cut-and-dried conventions of her small town. They set out, Barbara, her aunt, Croft, and a mechanic. Word in a few days comes to Darbury that the plane is missing and its occupants believed lost. Croft and Barbara, after the wreck of the airplane in a furious storm, reach an apparently uninhabited island in the Pacific ocean. The other two members of the party had perished. The two castaways build a shelter. In Croft's absence Barbara is attacked by a black man, evidently a savage. Croft rescues her. Croft discovers a party of blacks, evidently reconnoitering, but they leave without attempting to harm the pair. Croft fixes up an electrical guard to scare off attacking natives.

PART TWO—Continued.

Quietly, as if explaining the mechanism of a watch, he explained how it worked.

"I will load it, and fix it ready for use," he concluded.

And the girl who, in England, had shrunk from all firearms, took the little weapon from him eagerly, welcoming it as a valued friend bringing, possibly, the greatest succor of all.

As they sat in the dark hut, upon their upturned suitcases, near the window aperture, the strain upon Barbara's nerves became almost unbearable. With every minute her faith in the electric ruse, never strong, grew weaker; until it ebbed away, leaving only a ghastly death, or worse, creeping nearer with the rising of every star.

She faced the moment when, her companion slain, she would seize the revolver, turn the dark muzzle to her fluttering heart, place her finger on the trigger. . . . She clasped and unclasped her clammy hands, sitting upright; then crouching back against the bamboo. . . . Only fear of disgrace in her companion's opinion restrained her wild impulse to rise and flee somewhere—anywhere—to escape this fearful ordeal. Had Croft touched her or spoken, her companion would have stepped forth.

But he sat perfectly still, his gaze fixed upon the dark slope down which their enemies would come, his mind apparently oblivious to all else. As she watched him, her fevered brain seemed gradually to grow calm, her faith in his confidence and ingenuity to strengthen. . . . The strain relaxed. Hope struggled feebly within her heart. She no longer felt the wild desire to scream or to escape. Her clenched hands parted, and she sat back with a sigh.

Those who, from lack of imagination and its sense of fear, face a terrible ordeal with gallantry, are justly called brave; but those who, tortured by these possessions, foreseeing all with shrinking dread, yet meet it with no outward flinch, deserve the laurels of heroism. Some such thoughts flitted through Croft's mind, as he sat waiting, fully conscious of the suffering silently endured by his companion. When she relaxed against his shoulder, he drew a breath of relief.

What seemed like hours passed in the silence and darkness. Then Barbara suddenly raised her head.

"Have I been asleep?" she whispered, in astonishment.

He turned to answer, whipping suddenly back to the aperture, and craning forward. A sound had reached his intent ears—the faint distant crepitation of snapping twigs.

Now that the dreaded moment had arrived, Barbara was conscious of an utter lack of agitation. Save that her fingers closed upon his arm, she gave no sign; her eyes followed his, peering into the starlit dusk without.

For several minutes nothing more was heard. The girl was beginning to think it had been a false alarm, when all at once a slight rubbing noise reached them, as of something wriggling over rough ground. At the same instant a dark form was dimly discernible flitting, shadow-like, from a distant tree to the shelter of a large rock, there falling to the earth. Presently, from behind this rock, issued a little, snaky, black stream—three or four bodies waddling along on their fronts, their outline faintly distinguishable.

Minutely sweeping the whole visible horizon with his keen eyes, Croft now perceived other black streams, issuing from other temporary shelters, slowly trickling down the slope. . . . He leaned back.

"They are crawling along upon their stomachs, as I predicted, to avoid detection," he whispered.

Presently, two or three figures detached themselves from the moving mass and wriggled forward with incredible swiftness, leaving the remainder some yards behind. "Scouts!" whispered Croft.

Barbara caught her breath sharply, drawing back into the hut.

Croft, his eyes fixed upon the advancing figures, laid his hand upon the transmitter, with forefinger outstretched toward the little key upon which so much depended. No sign of the wire encircling the hut was visible in the comparative gloom.

A few tense moments. . . . then he pressed the key, keeping it down, giving the spark gap a slight adjustment.

Then, from all around, rose a deafening medley of howls and frenzied yells, partly of pain but more often of fear, as the advancing men came in contact with the wire, seeing the wicked blue sparks hiss at their bare flesh, feeling the sharp sting of the electricity. Those who escaped it were equally terrified, and the whole order broke up. Some rolled upon the ground rubbing themselves, still howling; others fled, screaming, toward the south. A few, braver, tried again to reach the goal; and again retreated, half petrified with fear of the unnatural.

Croft waited until but a few stragglers remained near the hut.

"Now," he cried, "we must show ourselves, and complete the illusion!"

"Oh!" remonstrated Barbara, "is that necessary?"

"Yes; if it's to be a success."

Seizing her arm, he dragged upon the door, and whirled her round to the landward end.

Those natives who remained uttered loud, fearful shouts, at sight of the two white figures; falling upon their faces, they stretched out arms of supplication, gabbling what seemed to Barbara unintelligible nonsense. Those fleeing turned, halted, then likewise fell upon their faces, terrified at these apparitions in the starlight.

For a moment the girl thought her companion had lost his senses. Loosing her arm, he sprang forward with a bound, his arms wildly waving. Appearing unnaturally tall, his white shirt and bandaged head increasing the supernatural effect in eyes used only to a dark naked skin, he went through a pantomime of weird gestures. Now and then this was interspersed with extraordinary utterances snarled from between gleaming teeth and cruel, drawn-back lips. The wild awful fury, seeming to emanate from every pore, terrified her; he looked every inch a savage himself. His weird babble bore strong resemblance to that of her pursuer. Apparently the prostrate natives understood at least part of the discourse; for occasionally eager hands were raised in supplication, accompanied by cries or moaning replies.

Suddenly, as if at some command, the groaning wretches scrambled to their feet. With another torrent of wild words, he wheeled round, and to her amazement, threw his arms around her, pressing her close. . . . What seemed, in the excitement of the moment, like a cloud of smoke, together with a sharp explosion, momentarily dazed her senses.

She felt herself lifted bodily, whirled back again round the hut and in at the entrance; while, from without arose a fresh confusion of howling cries, with the tread of running feet, as the warriors, terrified by the magnificent effects of the revolver shot in the dusk, dashed for their lives away up the slope.

Once inside, he leaned back against the bamboo, still holding her close, his breath coming first, every nerve tingling, primitive man among primitive men, after the savage state into which he had worked himself.

"Well done!" he panted, laughing wildly. "The revolver—just then—was an inspiration! Vanishing in a puff of smoke finished the trick!"

Barbara gasped, too much astonished to realize that she was still clasped in his arms, having forgotten the existence of the revolver during the last scene. It hung from her hand, still smoking a little from its accidental discharge.

"What—were—you doing?" she stammered.

Again he laughed wildly. "Telling them we were sent here by their gods, and should blast the island into a thousand bits if they showed us hostility! You saw the effect?"

"I did, indeed!" Realizing their position, she tried to free herself, but his arms tightened.

"Among natives," he continued, excitedly, "a wife is tabu to her husband. To—make you doubly safe, I told them you were my—my wife."

"Your—?" Words failed her. More vehemently she struggled, suddenly afraid of him, of his savage grip, and of the eyes which glittered strangely in the semi-darkness.

But ordinary shackles of restraint had fallen from Croft for the moment. Since those wonderful hours of the night before, the girl had assumed a new prominence in his mind. He had become acutely aware of her, as he had never yet been aware of any woman. It was all strange, bewildering. Life or death, man and woman, savage, primitive passions pitted against savage, primitive passions. . . . No drawing room code of morals or manners was guiding their destinies out here.

He laughed again, pressing her fiercely up against his chest. "So—while we are here, you are mine! Don't forget. You may belong to another in England; but here, you—you are mine!"

His tone was exultant, and he bent her backward so that her face was upturned, unprotected beneath his own. His breath came hot and fast above her lips.

Some primeval, caged beast instinct seized her, too, sweeping away fear. Raising her free hand, she dealt him, with sudden passion of rage, a blow in the face while struggling violently in his grasp.

His arms loosed her so abruptly that she nearly fell. For a moment he stood before her, his hands groping at his head, looking dazed, or as if awaking after some vivid dream. She confronted him with the fury of a little wildcat.

"You are mad! Mad! I—oh—I hate you!"

Covering her face with both hands, she strove to subdue the extraordinary tumult within her. . . . then looked up at the sound of the door being hastily shut with a crash of bamboo canes.

With a gasp of relief, she realized that she was alone.

V

After the natives' attack, a new phase began between the pair. Paradoxical though it may sound, the hours which brought them so near together widened the gulf between them. Had that eventful night ended with the accidental discharge of the revolver, their daily life might have continued more or less placidly, like the waters of some river, with but an occasional rock obstructing its even course. But Croft's amazing lack of self-control had been like a huge stone hurled violently into the center of the river, causing ever-widening circles to extend. Intensified a hundredfold, all the fears of her first afternoon upon the island rushed riotously back. She became conscious of him as she had never been before: not only of the force of his will, but of the strength of the passions lying dormant under a cold exterior.

Nothing more had been said concerning the episode. Half expecting some kind of apology, she had decided, next morning, to accept it frigidly, drawing close the cloak of her own reserve and dignity.

But the apology never came. He did not appear at all until nearly midday, when he arrived with arms full of fresh fruit. Then it was he who seemed encased in a mantle of such icy reserve that her own attempts dwindled to mere foolishness. She took refuge in silence. A stone wall and ten miles of land might have divided them. He spent the afternoon fetching things over from the reef, leaving her severely alone.

This position endured for some days. He seemed to keep away as much as possible, and her loneliness became at times intolerable. But she learned many practical things. He taught her to create fire by friction with wood; to bake breadfruit—that substitute for a cereal in the South seas—in hot embers, then scoop out the interior; or preserve it by drying thin slices in the sun. She soon acquired primitive ways of preparing, with a campfire and a few old native vessels, the strange fish, birds and the fruits he brought.

Then, one day, he came striding down the slope, after being absent for hours, looking strangely haggard round the eyes. With disconcerting suddenness, in characteristic, brief sentences, he demanded, more than suggested, friendship between them.

"We can't go on . . . this life's unbearable. . . ." His voice was unusually curt, the sentences were disjointed, his nerves evidently worn thin.

She was taken unawares, at a moment of deep depression, when everything seemed very dark. Not pausing to reflect on the possibility of similar suffering having impelled this request from one unaccustomed to beg, she shrank back, her fears and suspicions crowding in.

"I'm afraid I can't trust your—friendship. I can't forget—"

He looked at her queerly, with eyes that flashed in sudden anger.

"D—n it all! That was an exceptional night. Can't you understand?"

But years of Puritan surroundings are not wiped out in less than a week.

"I'm afraid not. I—"

"Then you must lump it!" He turned away with an expressive shrug, and disappeared up the hill.

That was the only overture he ever made; and the strain between them increased.

Barbara welcomed anything which made work to absorb her thoughts. For the terrible feeling of impotence, the sheer homesickness, the loneliness, were ever below the surface, ready, all together or individually, to spring upon her at any moment.

A day arrived on which the onsets came "not singly but in battalions." She had been alone for hours. When Croft arrived, her spirits were below zero, her nerves frayed, her temper was not of the best. He glanced at her shrewdly, but appeared to notice nothing. Coming to the hut, he dropped a large coconut into her lap, where she sat outside the door.

"There you are, my child! Get busy!" he remarked casually.

Uncontrollable irritation, the result of solitary fretting, welled up within her. Impulsively she seized the coconut and hurled it down the beach. "Don't call me that! I'm not your 'child'—nor anything to do with you."

There was a moment's silence; then he gave a little laugh.

"No, indeed! Let's thank the good Lord for that, at all events."

She looked up, dumfounded; but he had turned away into the hut.

So that was the position? Her dislike was returned in full? A sharp stab of hurt pride and desolation caused sudden tears to rise and roll down her cheeks. She scrambled to her feet and, out of sight among the brushwood, lay down and sobbed out her heart.

Croft got his own supper that night. He made no comment on her swollen eyes and lack of appetite. But when she took the large shells used for plates to wash in the lagoon, he rose, impulsively, to follow her. After a few steps, however, he paused uncertainly. With a little helpless shrug, he returned to the hut.

Each day he spent much time upon the reef, salving all that was possible of the machine, until what remained was swept away one night by the tide.

A dozen times a day, one or both climbed the hill and vainly searched the horizon—gathering, with dwindling hopes, more fuel to heap upon the growing pile which some day might flare into a beacon to attract a passing vessel.

The natives seldom returned to the island. "Settlement" whatever Croft encountered one, the frightened wretch took to his heels. Only once did he meet one with sufficient courage to reply to the white man's questions. But, at the first allusion to ships and other white men, his fortitude gave completely away; with a wailing cry of fear, he turned and vanished among the trees, leaving Croft no wiser.

Barbara was haunted by thoughts of Hugh's suffering. To be alive, in splendid health, yet unable to inform those mourning her death, could be equaled only by a like impotence upon the other side of the grave to allay the sufferings of those beloved upon earth. After a lifetime, too, of inseparable companionship, this new existence, in which Hugh had no part, seemed strangely incomplete. Yet, paradoxically again, his presence was not needed here; he would have seemed as much out of place as the proverbial fish out of water.

Croft, on the other hand, appeared daily more suited to his environment, fitting in as if it were indeed his "natural sphere." Gradually, as the past grew fainter, her confidence returned. His apparent disinclination for her company, though reassuring in one way, piqued her in another. So she withdrew into her own shell; and the invisible wall grew higher between them, only occasional chinks appearing, or thin places through which they came a little nearer. At these times the girl regretted her refusal of his one friendly overture.

It was one evening, two or three weeks after the natives' attack, that the largest chink in the wall appeared.

The day had been unusually hot; and she strolled listlessly up to the river to bathe. With bare sunburned feet, and the revolver—without which she seldom stirred—stuck in her belt, she passed through the grove, through the tall dark avenues beyond, to the clearing by the water's edge. There she halted, amazed.

Face downward lay Croft, his dark head buried in his arms; beside him were one or two branches of bananas; a couple of breadfruit had rolled, unnoticed, a few yards away.

Barbara is shocked by Croft's display of passion. Yet she is piqued by his show of indifference. What next?

"To Walk Spanish"

To make a person "walk Spanish" is to make him come up to time, or to make him act under compulsion. It refers to the old sport among boys in which one boy seizes another by the collar and the seat of the trousers and forces him along on tiptoe. Hence, by extension, it means to walk gingerly. Apparently the expression originally referred to the manner in which the Spanish pirates used to handle their prisoners while starting them out on the plank.—Exchange.

ORLAND

ORLAND M. E. CHURCH
Elmer L. Setterlund, Pastor.

On the first Sunday of the new Conference year our Sunday School attendance climbed to 127. This is doing splendidly, but why cannot we make it 150? We are anxious that our children get their secular education—but we cannot afford to neglect their moral and religious training. Are you getting your share of the influence of the church in this community?

The Reverend Mr. Neumeier of Chicago Training School, formerly pastor of the Orland M. E. church, preached the sermon last Sunday morning. The congregation was glad to greet their former pastor and his wife.

There are plans being made for a Halloween social. Announcement of this will be given later.

The moving picture committee is working out a schedule of Friday night entertainments for the next three months and this program will soon be in the press. Watch for it. Every picture will be of superb value.

Next Friday evening at 7:30 the regular moving picture entertainment will be given. The program includes an Aesop's Fable comedy, a two reel comedy entitled "Mud" and a reel of scenic Yosemite Valley, and a 4 reel comedy drama called "Monty Works the Wires." This pictures features a dog.

On Friday evening October 30th the main film will depict a story of romance and reality of the days of Lincoln entitled "The Heart of Lincoln." Several comedy pictures will also be shown including one of special interest to children "Little Red Riding Hood."

Sunday morning October 25th. Sunday School at 9:30. Interest is increasing—come and join us, if you are not an attendant elsewhere.

Morning worship at 10:30. The subject of the morning meditation will be "What Is Your Diet?" This discussion aims to deal with a most practical topic that should concern us all. Every service aims to minister to our higher life and helps us be more fit for the work and the struggle of the week.

In the evening at 7:30 a moving picture reel entitled "The Promised Land" will be shown and a discourse on the "Heritage of Hope" will supplement the picture.

If you live in this community and do not worship elsewhere, please take this as a cordial, personal invitation to join with us. You can not afford to be without a church home.

Clarence Beagley sold a Radiola SuperHeterdyne this past week to Ralph Agate and one to Henry Munch, Jr.

The young people of the Orland M. E. church will give a Halloween party in the church parlors on Saturday night November 1st.

Clarence Beagley has been doing the electrical wiring in the new home of Peter Michiels, 143rd street the new addition to James Creer's store and the new home of Mr. Mullin's, across the street from the Catholic church.

I have hacked forest trees and left campfires burning from the California line to the Canadian border.

I have hooked pears from a Medford orchard and walnuts in the Willamette Valley, "Rome Beauties" from the beautiful Hood River and "Delicious" apples from the Broad Yakima Valley.

I have rolled rocks into the sapphire depths of Crater Lake and thrown tin cans into Lake Chelan.

I have seen all, heard all, and in my weak way have managed to destroy much.

TINLEY PARK

William Schilling, a student at Concordia college at Milwaukee met with a serious accident, while climbing a fire escape, he lost his footing and fell over some iron pipes used in concrete work. He broke his right shoulder bone, and suffered some severe concussions all over his body. He was rushed to a hospital where fears for his life were entertained for a long time. His parents Mr. and Mrs. Adam Schilling visited him last week and reported him out of danger.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schaumburg of Austin Minn., are visiting with the Rev. Wm. Greve family. Mr. Schaumburg is an experienced carpenter, and will stay in this vicinity if he is able to find steady work. He entered the employ of Mrs. A. Kott' at Blue Island. Mrs. Schaumburg has been teaching for a number of years in Minnesota, South Dakota, and Montana.

BACHELOR GROVE LUTH. CH.

The Young People's Society meets every first Thursday in the month. The next meeting will be held Nov 5th.

Regular German services are held every Sunday at o'clock a. m. Next Sunday a sermon on the epistle lesson Eph. 5, 15-21: "Redeeming the Times."

English services are conducted every Sunday at 10 A. M. Next 7:30 p. m. Special services commemorating the Reformation will be held next Sunday evening. Student R. Neitzel will preach the sermon.

The Ladies' Aid Society meets every first Sunday in the month at the church. The annual supper and sale will be held at Saenger Hall, Tinley Park, the Thursday before Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 19.

The Southern District Conference of of the Northern Illinois District comprising 63 Lutheran ministers conducted their semi-annual meeting at the Bachelor Grove church during the last week. Several important doctrinal essays were discussed and other matters, especially the purchase of Valparaiso University by the Missouri Synod, aroused keen interest. On Wednesday eve a Communion Service was held, and nearly all members present partook of it. The Rev. E. A. Klansy of Beecher spoke on Ex. 14, 13-14 in the Confessional Service and Rev. R. Piehler of Eagle Lake delivered the sermon on the text Acts 20, 26-32. A motion of thanks for the hospitality of the congregation was passed unanimously by the conference.

Wm. Koehler is wearing the big smile that won't come off and the reason is that he is the proud grand daddy of a son born to Mr. and Mrs. Mancke October 12.

Mrs. Fred Hick had a birthday Sunday and a large number of relatives were entertained in honor of the event. On Monday a large company of friends and neighbors were entertained. A jolly time was the verdict of all the guests.

George Schreiber the well known Tinley Park shoe man has added a very attractive line of jewelry to his shoe store. The jewelry stock is being handled as a side line.

J. C. Funk is serving on jury duty in Chicago.

A chicken supper was held at the Lutheran church in Oak Forest Wednesday night and a number of Tinley Park people attended.

Mr. Hinler who live on the John M. Bettenhausen farm recently engaged a stranger as a hired man. Last Friday morning the stranger walked away with an overcoat that did not belong to him and attempted to leave for parts unknown but his hasty exit was discovered right away and John M. Bettenhausen who was recently appointed deputy sheriff at once took up the track and arrested the stranger at the R. I. depot in Tinley Park while the farm hand was waiting for a train. The overcoat was recovered and the hired hand was given free board at Oak Forest for awhile.

W. C. Holstein who has served as school director of School District 139 in Orland township for thirty three years without a break, has resigned on account of changing his residence to Tinley Park. On Saturday a special election was held at which Cleveland Holstein, a son of the out going director was elected.

The many friends of Mr. Holstein congratulate him on his long and successful career as director.

Health and Home

PROPER FOOD FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

The age during which children are attending school may aptly be called "The Dangerous Age." It is the period of rapid growth and every care should be taken to insure the child of a normal and healthy body. The idea of eating only fit and wholesome foods should be early impressed on the younger members of every family in order to protect them against later ill health and its accompanying unhappiness. If the utmost care is not taken in the diet that is used by children, cases of food poisoning, indigestion and kindred ailments may result.

And milk, being the chief item in the diets of most children, should be carefully guarded. It is, because of its nature, prone to infection if exposed to germs and may soon become unfit for use. Wherever there is the slightest reason for doubt as to its purity and food value, steps should be taken to insure the sterility and the fitness of milk intended for consumption by children. Many mothers have adopted the excellent practice of using milk that is absolutely pure and sterile and free from any germs or bacteria. The most satisfactory, as well as the safest milk used in preparing food for the growing child is evaporated milk.

It is sterile, and therefore safe. It is more digestible than market milk. Its uniformity, convenience and cost are qualities that recommend it.

The following dishes are well suited to the needs of the growing child; they are easily digested and very nourishing:

Caramel Custard.

- | | |
|-------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 1 cup evaporated milk diluted | 1/2 cup sugar (caramelized) |
| with | 2 tsp. sugar |
| 1 cup water | 1/2 tsp. salt |
| 3 eggs | 1/2 tsp. vanilla |

Scald the diluted milk. Caramelize the sugar and add to milk to dissolve. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt, and flavoring and combine with scalded milk. Pour into custard cups and set in a pan of hot water and cook in a moderate oven. When done, a knife blade run in the center will come out clean.

Fish Chowder

- | | |
|------------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1 pint raw fish cut in 1-inch dice | 3 cups boiling water |
| 5 small potatoes, sliced | 1 cup evaporated milk diluted |
| 2 onions chopped fine | 1 cup water |
| 1/4 pound fat salt pork, sliced | 6 crackers |

Fry out the salt pork. When brown, remove pieces of pork and put fish, potatoes, and onions in kettle. Cover with boiling water. Simmer until potatoes are tender. Add the milk and cook 5 minutes longer. Season with salt and pepper. Just before serving add the crackers.

What Seemed Humorous

Mother was entertaining a caller, when suddenly Dorothy, who had been playing on the floor, yawned prodigiously. "My, what a big yawn for such a little girl," exclaimed the caller. "Yes," agreed Dorothy, "and the funny part is that I wasn't listening at all to what you were saying."

UNEARNED CRITICISM

By FRANCIS H. SISSON

Chairman, Public Relations Commission American Bankers Association

There has been some disposition to criticize the administration of the country's banking system for the sudden collapse of prices and curtailment of credits in 1920 and 1921, and the subsequent financial difficulties of the farmers. As a matter of fact, whatever blame may attach to bankers must be for the too generous financing, in many cases, of speculative investment in farm property during the period of inflation. If any just criticism could be directed at the manner in which the Federal Reserve System functioned in this situation in the opinion of many it would be that the Reserve banks delayed too long in raising the discount rates. An earlier effort might have stayed the process of inflation.

The collapse of 1920 was by no means confined to agriculture, and was the inevitable sequel to the inflation period. All branches of business suffered in this period of reaction and perhaps none more than banking, against which this criticism has been leveled. The financial situation of the farmers was greatly aggravated by the fact that the high land values and high prices of agricultural products had led many farmers to incur obligations based on the inflated values. If the farmer was victimized at all, indeed, he was the victim of too much rather than too little consideration. The real progress which has been achieved in agricultural finance in recent years lies more in the intelligent distribution of farm credit than in volume.

With agencies now functioning for the provision of ample credits for the American farmer, his enduring success depends upon the wisdom and foresight with which he meets the problems of production and marketing. More than ever before, his activities must be regulated with reference to world conditions, and his profits, like those of the manufacturer or merchant, will reflect the measure of his success in adjusting his activities to these conditions.

MEN'S DRESS

By W.A. Churchill, Secretary

BORN TAILORS GUILD

Give Your Clothes a Rest

THE weary waistcoat and the tired trousers—these are not fancies of the imagination but cold realities. You wouldn't make your horse go day after day without a rest or run your car without giving the engine a chance to cool off. And in just the same way your clothes have an occasional vacation coming to them once in a while if you want to get the most wear out of them.

It is known that even steel, when constantly used, gets what engineers call "metal fatigue." Wool is no exception. The sturdiest wool fibers become flattened and pressed out of shape by continuous use. Their strength returns, if they are allowed to rest up a bit.

Fortunately, you do not have to send fatigued suits to the seaside or mountains to recover their vigor. A nice, dark closet and well-fitting hanger make an ideal vacation for their jaded nerves. What you do need, though, is enough suits to keep them from getting too tired out. Two suits worn alternately wear considerably longer than three suits purchased one at a time and each worn continuously every day until worn out.

What is true of suits is equally true of shoes. Besides the greater economy of having two or three pairs of everyday shoes going at once, the man who has to stand or walk a great deal will find it much easier on his feet to have a Monday-Wednesday-Friday pair to alternate with his Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday brogues.

THE BANKER-EDUCATOR PLAN TO PROMOTE BETTER AGRICULTURE

By D. H. OTIS,

Agricultural Director, American Bankers Association

Whenever bankers desire to promote actively agricultural improvement in their communities, the state agricultural colleges stand ready to show them the way and to give expert assistance. The purpose of this article is to illustrate the way in which the colleges are getting in contact with the banks, and the kind of assistance they render.

As soon as the college has a list of the banks in the state desiring to adopt plans to aid agriculture as indicated by project blanks sent out to all the banks in the state, by the State Bankers Association Agricultural Committee, it gives practical suggestions to each banker on the list as to what he can do to stimulate, organize, and conduct the work in the particular project he has selected. Then either a department specialist from the college or the county agent gets in personal touch with the banker to assist him in an advisory capacity.

Samples of the project outlines are given below to illustrate the details of the procedure the college takes in accomplishing its plan.

College Provides Expert Advisers

In counties with no county agent a list of the banks desiring to carry on a project is sent to a specialist at the state college, according to the project listed. For instance, the banks desiring to carry on the farm accounts project are assigned to the farm management specialist, those desiring to carry on the legume project to the agronomy specialist, those interested in boys' and girls' club work to the junior extension specialist, and so forth.

In counties that do have a county agent a list of the banks and the projects in which each is interested is sent to him with a request that he get in touch with the bankers and help them in regard to the various projects.

The next step by the college is to write to each banker on the list sending him project outlines and informing him that the county agent or a specialist from the college will get in touch with him. If there is no agent in the county this letter reads as follows:

Union State Bank, Bankville.

Gentlemen—You will find enclosed a brief outline of the farm accounts project in which you have indicated your interest to your State Agricultural Committee and to the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association.

I am sure that the specialist from the agricultural college will be pleased to assist you in carrying out the suggestions indicated. We have asked him to get in touch with you.

Director, Agricultural Extension.

The letter to bankers in counties that do have a county agent informs them that he will get in touch with them.

Suggests Things the Banker Can Do

The project outlines sent to each banker give specific suggestions as to the things he can do to organize the work in his project, and the part he can take in carrying out the work. The more simple and concrete these suggestions are the more valuable they are to the banker. Following are samples of such project outlines:

Farm Accounts Project

1. Banker can select group of farmers who can and should undertake the work of farm accounts.
2. Arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for first meeting of the group and select an account book.
3. Assist individuals at their request with information relative to entering accounts and other data properly.
4. Act as or select leader for the group.
5. Assist in checking inventories as a means of securing individual financial statement at close of the year.

Boys' and Girls' Club Work

1. The banker can arrange with the county agent or the specialist of the agricultural college for organizing a club.
2. Plan to present various types of club work at the next meeting and perfect the organization of a local club.
3. Banker may act as local leader of the club.
4. Cooperate with county agent or specialist in annual "Achievement Day."
5. Banker may offer prizes for club work or otherwise assist in financing same.

Legume Project

1. The banker can get information from county agent or specialist from the agricultural college on the value of alfalfa, soy bean, or sweet clover crops to farmers of the community.
2. Arrange for meeting of interested farmers with county agent or specialist.
3. At this meeting county agents, specialists, or others will discuss:
 - (a) Value of crop.
 - (b) Seed supply and varieties.
 - (c) Methods of handling the crop.
 - (d) Use and disposition of crop.
4. Plan with county agent or specialist meetings and demonstrations on plots or fields.
5. Secure exhibits for community or county fair.

Cow Testing Associations

1. The banker can arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for meeting of interested group of farmers in the community for the purpose of organizing a cow testing association.
2. Banker may act as leader, and with county agent or specialist plan to visit prospective farmers who may join the association.
3. Organize for work and assist in securing testing equipment and other materials whenever necessary.
4. Call meetings periodically to discuss association business and hold picnics or tours.
5. Banker with county agent or specialist may arrange for C. T. A. booth at community or county fair giving testing demonstrations and explaining work of association.

This constitutes the preliminary work by the college which paves the way for constructive work by the bankers in banker-farmer projects.

BANKERS HELP

The banks of Linn County Oregon, are showing more enthusiasm than ever this year in behalf of a county corn exhibit similar to that held last year at the Linn County Fair. Last year's exhibit was the result of a contest for a prize offered by a number of local banks. This was so successful that this year ten out of the eleven banks in the county will subscribe to the effort.

The Agricultural Committee of the Alabama Bankers Association has recommended that a scholarship fund be established for the education of worthy young men and women along agricultural and home economics lines. It is estimated that if each bank in the state were to contribute 25 cents per thousand capital, five to six thousand dollars per annum would be realized.

The Agricultural Committee of the Oklahoma Bankers Association, in its report, recommends that the bankers see that a competent agent is appointed in each county and that he has a degree from some agricultural college. They believe that the agricultural possibilities of the state should be better advertised and that each county bankers association should do some work along that line.

Searcy County Bankers Association, Arkansas, entertained as its guests recently some seventy-five farmers and business men. The result was the organization of the North Central Arkansas Agricultural Association. Its purpose will be to co-ordinate the efforts of the farmers and business men in promoting a better agriculture. Searcy County bankers are giving 100 settings of purebred eggs for distribution to the boys' and girls' clubs in the county.

H. S. Mowrer, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the New Jersey Bankers Association, together with H. J. Baker, director of extension work in the College of Agriculture, made a complete tour of the state this spring, calling on the county agents and agricultural committees of the various county organizations to get a definite line-up on the work done and the plans for the coming year. Ways and means for furthering the program of the state committee were considered at these conferences.

EASING THE BURDEN OF STATE TAXATION

Banker Points Out Benefits of Community Property System in Some States.

Favorable aspects of tax systems are now among the most highly prized assets of our states. It is pointed out in the American Bankers Association Journal in connection with an article on how California, which has never had a state income tax, cuts state and Federal death taxes nearly in half by the "community property" system. L. H. Roseberry, Vice President Security Trust and Savings Bank, Los Angeles, author of the article, says that a recent amendment to the tax law enables future residents of the state to take advantage of it. Reference is made to a former article by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Dewey, voicing the need for death tax reform and citing a hypothetical case involving California inheritance taxes which might have been levied in 1920. Since that time the laws have been changed, Mr. Roseberry declares, so that the figures then given do not correctly represent the present situation. He says:

"Ever since its admission California has had the 'community property' system. Eight other states have a similar system. 'Community property' is property accumulated by married persons during their marriage, except that which is acquired by gift, bequest or inheritance. Approximately 45 per cent of all property in the state is 'community property.' Such property in California enjoys the most favorable position in regard to death taxes, both state and Federal, of any state in the Union (excepting possibly the eight other states having a similar property system) including states boasting of no inheritance tax whatever. The California 'community property' system is recognized for the purpose of levying Federal estate taxes, and only one-half of it is now so taxed, while in Florida the whole estate of a decedent is subject to the Federal levy."

How the Law Works

"California's law expressly provides that upon the death of either husband or wife, testate, only one-half of their net 'community property' shall be subject to inheritance taxes. The same exemption applies upon the death of the husband, intestate, while the whole net 'community property' is totally exempt from all state inheritance taxation upon the death of the wife, intestate. The Federal estate tax law now follows precisely the California law in this respect."

"As the result of an amendment made to the California inheritance tax law by the 1925 Legislature, this immunity from state inheritance taxes likewise now extends to 'community property' of non-resident married persons, who hereafter take up their legal residence in the state. This puts 'community property' in a more favorable position regarding death taxes than exists in any other state in the Union, with the possible exception of the other community property states. This extension of the exemption will add 15 per cent to property in the state coming under this definition, which means that approximately 80 per cent of all property probated in California will enjoy the lightest death taxes in America."

"To illustrate, the following example of a man survived by a wife and two minor children is computed, the estate consisting of 'community property' all left by will to the wife and children. One-half of such property would go under the law to the wife without any death taxes, and the other half only would be subject to both state inheritance and Federal estate taxes."

"As a subject of comparison, take a state which has no inheritance tax, such as Florida. If the comparison were made with the states which impose inheritance taxes but do not have the 'community property' system, the advantage in favor of California would even be more striking."

Estate of $100,000	Total Tax
California	None
Non-inheritance-tax state	$500
Advantage in favor of California	500
Estate of $200,000
California	905
Non-inheritance-tax state	3,000
Advantage in favor of California	2,095
Estate of $400,000
California	5,779
Non-inheritance-tax state	13,000
Advantage in favor of California	7,220
Estate of $1,000,000
California	1,249,155
Non-inheritance-tax state	2,548,500
Advantage in favor of California	1,299,345

"If the two children were adults, the California tax would be increased only $280 in each case."

Another New Amendment

"Another feature of the recent amendment to the California inheritance tax law is a section fixing the inheritance taxes on stock in California corporations owned by non-residents at a flat sum of 2 per cent on their actual value. When considered in conjunction with the ruling that no inheritance taxes can be levied upon any stock in foreign corporations, or upon bank accounts, bonds, notes, debentures, or similar securities belonging to a non-resident but located in the state at the time of such non-resident's decease, it will be observed that at present the inheritance tax situation in California is most favorable, both to non-residents who have property in this state and to married people who live here or who may subsequently move here from elsewhere."

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Durringer and the latter's brother, Martin Heim, of Roseland motored out Monday and spent the day with Mrs. Durringer's aunt, Mrs. John Semmler.

WORTH

The Ever Gay Club had their regular meeting at the Russert home on Thursday evening October 15.

Miss Lillian Kaufman was unable to attend the meeting on account of having had her tonsils removed the previous week. Miss Ethel Foyle is also confined to the house on account of illness. Mrs. Anna Ferrin and Mrs. Ella Peterson attended a bazaar and Miss Ethel Stewart is deeply engrossed in the study of geometry at the Englewood Evening School and cannot attend the meetings regularly. However twelve out of seventeen is a very good attendance. We had hoped to bring in a new member but were unsuccessful this time. We hope she will join our club at the next meeting which will be November 5th at Lillian Kaufman's home. This seems to be a very busy time of the year for most people, but we hope everyone will be able to attend the next meeting.

Everyone was pleased to have Mr. Paul T. Sanders with us again on Sunday morning after an absence of five weeks. On account of the Rally Day program, however, Mr. Sanders did not have an opportunity to speak to the congregation during the service but he expects to have a good sermon prepared for next Sunday morning after an absence of Sunday morning and the community is invited to come out to hear his sage.

TINLEY PARK

Crushed stone has been spread in the street in front of the Vogt store filling up the chuck holes and improving the street greatly.

Building operations are still in progress despite the cold weather. Mr. Duval is busily engaged on a new dwelling in the northwest end of town.

Fred Nielsen, Jr., of Omaha had an experience he won't soon forget last Friday. He was motoring to Tinley Park where he had planned to spend a few days with his grand father, Fred Nielsen, following which he was to proceed on his way to Florida where he is going to spend the winter. When he reached New Lenox late Friday night it was raining hard. He inquired what road to take to get to Tinley Park and someone gave him the wrong information saying he should take the north road out of New Lenox and continue going north. He did so and soon found himself on a mud road. He got back on a gravel road and stopped at a farm house to get directions as to what road to get on to get to Tinley Park but the farmer refused to talk to him and even sicked the dogs on him. He tried his luck again at another farm house and told the farmer who he wanted to see at Tinley and the farmer said he knew Mr. Nielsen but remarked "But I don't know you" and ordered him off the farm. After driving about for some time Mr. Nielsen at last reached the Lincoln Highway at the four corners north of Frankfort and upon making inquires of a man he met there he was at last directed on the right road and reached Tinley all right. Mr. Nielsen said that the people in the west were far more civil and would not treat a stranger as he was treated.

The Test of Time Proves the Value of

PE-RU-NA

Under the date of March 6, 1902, Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 139 Riverside Ave., Little Rock, Arkansas, has this to say about her experience: "I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, others consumption of the bowels. The medicine I took did no good. A friend advised me to try PE-RU-NA. I did. After taking two bottles I found it was helping me and continued. Am now sound and well."

A letter from Mrs. Durbin, dated December 12, 1923, shows that, even after twenty-two years, she is in the best of health: "I still recommend PE-RU-NA to my friend who need a good medicine an everybody is pleased. I thank you many times for what PE-RU-NA has done for me."

There is nothing strange in this experience of Mrs. Durbin. It has been repeated thousands of times by sufferers from catarrh and catarrhal diseases.

BROUGHT RELIEF AFTER 2 YEARS SUFFERING

"The makers of Tanlac will always have my warmest thanks, for I don't consider it any exaggeration to say I owe my life and present good health to Tanlac," is the striking statement of Andrew Groeschner, from.

"Words simply can't express the misery I endured for 2 years from indigestion. At times gas pains would catch me around the heart and almost cut off my breath. These awful pains would last two and three hours. My nerves were all unstrung. I slept poorly and got in such a bad way that my days seemed to be shortening rapidly."

"I tried everything, but disappointment was my only reward until I began taking Tanlac. I have been taking Tanlac off and on for a year now and feel so different that there's no room for comparison. I eat good and sleep good and feel that Tanlac has given me a new lease on life."

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

A PICNIC FOR GOOD TEETH

AN ANCIENT philosopher long ago observed that it is easier to stimulate men by rewards than to scare them by punishment. Naturally, this applies to children even more than to adults. An interesting and amusing illustration of this truth is told in a recent issue of the Listening Post, the monthly bulletin of the Pennsylvania department of health.

The school nurse in Hanover had been trying for some time to have all the school children look after their teeth. The children were told the dangers and discomforts of decayed teeth. But little headway was made.

Finally, it occurred to Miss MacKenzie that a reward might do more than a threat. So the local Parent-Teacher association was interested and a plan worked out. It was announced that there would be a school picnic in the spring before school closed. What is there that rejoices the heart of the child like a picnic? Would they go? They would. The invitation was accepted unanimously.

But—as the old lady said to the life insurance canvasser—there was a catch in it. Only those children could go who brought along a certificate from the family dentist, saying that their teeth were in perfect condition.

Then followed four months of the busiest times the dentists in that town had ever known. Parents were amazed. Children who had cried and rebelled when taken to the dentist now went with joy and gladness. Children who had tried to get out of this dreaded visit now begged their parents to take them to the dentist at once. An honor roll for each room, on which appeared the name of every child who had brought back his certificate of dental perfection, hung where every child could see it. The one desire of every child was to see his name on the roll.

The school board offered a half holiday and the Parent-Teacher association offered a prize of $5 to the room which would first show a complete list. It was won by the third grade three months after the campaign began.

The school enrollment was three hundred and fifteen. When the picnic was held, two hundred and thirty children had perfect teeth, forty-eight had been to the dentist, but had not had all their repair work quite finished and thirty-seven children, chiefly in the primary grade, had not been examined, probably because they had no dental defects.

RAILROADS AND DISEASE

THE spread of disease is largely due to man's movements from one place to another. Disease generally follows travel routes. In the Middle Ages, the Black Death, as bubonic plague was called, always spread along the established routes for caravans and shipping. Cholera from India has always followed the paths taken by returning pilgrims. The crusaders caused an enormous increase in disease. The East and the West swapped diseases, European diseases were carried by the knights, squires and camp followers from England, France and Germany to Palestine. On their return they brought back the diseases of the Orient to their own households. Naturally, this spreading of disease was slow, as all travel then was by foot or by sailing vessels. With our present-day rapid travel, all diseases would probably be world-wide if it had not happened that, just about the time steam began to develop as a means of transportation, our knowledge of disease and its prevention also began to grow. So that today, in spite of the fact that men travel freely and rapidly all over the earth as never before, disease is controlled and prevented as never before.

So important is the control of diseases on railroads that it has become a special branch of sanitation and the United States public health service has worked out a special method of controlling the spread of disease on railroads, which has been adopted by all the forty-eight states.

In Public Health Bulletin No. 129, Dr. Thomas R. Crowder, chief of sanitation of the Pullman Car company and one of the recognized authorities on railroad sanitation, tells how this work is carried on.

Modern knowledge has done away with many of the old beliefs and fears about disease. Our grandfathers were afraid of things. They thought any object which a sick person had touched could transmit the disease. So, in times of yellow fever epidemics, they spent much time and money and destroyed much property, for fear the baggage of travelers and the cargoes of ships and cars might carry disease.

Today we know that things are comparatively harmless. Few disease germs will live any length of time outside the human body. With the exception of those diseases carried by insects and those carried by dirty milk and water, diseases are passed directly from the sick person to the well. So the control of disease on trains is practically the same as the control of disease anywhere else. The most important thing is to keep the well person from coming in contact with the sick person.

Kills Germs—Ends Odors

A new, easy way to keep toilets sanitary

Doctors agree that too little is known about prevention of disease. Deadly typhoid fever germs, they say, lurk in every toilet vault and catch basin.

That is why health authorities recommend regular use of Lewis' Lye in these places. It gives complete protection that nothing else does.

First, Lewis' Lye kills germs. Next, it destroys flies. Finally it ends fermentation—the cause of noxious gases and odors.

Empty a can of Lewis' Lye in the toilet vault or catch basin each week. Keep your family safe from the typhoid menace and dangerous sewer gas.

Nothing takes the place of

LEWIS' LYE

The Lewis' Lye can has a safety friction top. Easy to open and close. Always seals tight and safe.

A COVINGTON, KY., WOMAN Makes Remarkable Recovery

Mrs. Harry Ashcroft Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Severe Illness and Pain

MRS. HARRY ASHCROFT
632 BEECH AVENUE, COVINGTON, KY.
Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength, but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E.

Pinkham's Blood Medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."

—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.
Mrs. Boyer Also Found Help
Gilman City, Missouri.—"I was in such a condition that I could not eat nor sleep to do me any good and I felt draggy all the time. My head ached, my right side and back would almost kill me at times, and I could be on my feet only a short while at a time. I was irregular and so nervous, irritable and despondent that I thought I could not stand the strain much longer. I had been this way more or less for ten years, but the last two years was just terrible. I took medicines, but got little relief until I began to take the Vegetable Compound. I took three bottles before I could see any change at all. I have taken seven in all and am improving right along. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and take the Liver Pills. I can do most of my work now, and I live on a farm and there is lots of it to do. I wash, iron, hoe the garden, raise chickens and tend to the milk."—Mrs. T. M. BOYER, Gilman City, Missouri.

When Truth Is Rated as Fiction

By REV. H. OSTROM, D. D.
Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—Their words seemed to them as idle tales.—Luke 24:11.

A distinguished official in one of the religious denominations is said to have expressed surprise when a man of much privileges and comfortable prospects had decided to work in a far away mission field. The reply was:

He hears a voice you cannot hear,
Which will not let him stay;
He sees a hand you cannot see,
Which beckons him away.

The two distinct worlds in which men live, though they may walk arm in arm on the street, are here shown. One is the world of doubt, the other the world of faith. One is the dark world, the other the world of the light. In the one facts are cherished which in the other seem as idle tales.

The resurrection of Christ is called by some "an idle tale," but had there never been a sun in the sky and it should be suddenly thrust forth in all its splendor, it would but faintly suggest the significance of the resurrection. Not only do we here see this persistent and humiliating enemy—death, laid low, but we are justified before God as believers. We are assured of everlasting life. Yet it is to them as "idle tales."

Idle tales! What are they? Incredible stories, falsehoods, to those who see not the truth. Can the truth seem a lie? Yes, we have example after example of it in the Bible. And how sharply does this rebuke the last little fraction of boasted human wisdom when it clashes with God's truth! And does it not, too, force upon us the imperative need of heeding God's revealed truth? Men not only become deceivers, which is deplorable, but they are themselves deceived. Deceived men regard the truth as false and contend against it with sarcasm and ridicule and contemptuous gibe.

But now our risen Lord bids Thomas be established in the truth. Thomas is saying: "Where are the nail-prints on his body, where is the spear-thrust?" "It is all an idle tale to me until I have the evidence." "What? Risen? We shall see." Then words of such grace and truth greet him: "Thomas reach hither thy finger!" Behold the tale surmarched by the truth! It is Thomas who exclaims: "My Lord and my God!" He is undeceived. He has exchanged the fiction for the fact. Truth is truth to him and no longer a lie. Resolution has been met by revelation.

Who could enumerate the volumes of fiction which have been cast aside after one look of faith at the risen Christ? Delusion has been cast aside, not by philosophies, not by arguments, but by looking to Jesus, and the truth has found a welcome in the heart. Search the records and you will find that human trying only increases the one deceived, but one real heart-look to Jesus brings assurance. Is it strange that it is so? He waits for that look of faith. Hear Him say to the blind man: "Dost thou believe on the Son of God?"

Pointing to Jesus

John pointed to Jesus. He did it so wholeheartedly that people forgot the pointer, and looked at Jesus. Every question brought a "not" about himself, which emphasized the word about Jesus. The voice spoke so distinctly and self-forgetfully that men were caught only by what was said. Each of us may be an index-finger pointing to Jesus. The home-life, the controlling spirit, the daily touch with others, may make others think of Him.—J. H. Jowett.

Barnabas' Advice

Remember Barnabas' advice, "Cleave to the Lord"—not to man, but to the Lord. May He perfect all that concerneth you. Do not fear the face of man. Remember how small their anger will appear in eternity.—McCheyne.

Education

Education that trains body, mind, and heart, and fully equips one for the more abundant life is a great thing; but how about that kind which disregards the heart and leaves the body a nervous wreck?—The Mennonite.

Belief

Oh, for the belief that the same Jesus Who ascended into the heavens has come back again, and that He is here in His invisible representative, the Holy Spirit, as truly as He was in the city of Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost!—Charles E. Jefferson.

True Religion

The first and fundamental doctrine of a true religion must be that of a personal Creator, and the first sentence of the Bible states it clearly.—Pepper.

PAUL IN EPHESUS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:1-41.
GOLDEN TEXT—"For the love of money is the root of all evil."—I Tim. 6:10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Tells Idol-Makers About Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Preaching Stirs Up a Riot.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Diana or Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Money or Christ.

Apollos, an Alexandrian Jew, an eloquent man and mighty in the Scriptures, had preceded Paul at Ephesus. He had diligently taught the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptism of John. When Aquila and Priscilla heard him they perceived his lack of instruction in Christian truth. Therefore, they took him and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly. Having thus come into fuller light, the brethren gave him a letter of endorsement as he passed to other fields.

I. John's Disciples Become Christians (vv. 1-7).

These 12 disciples had been taught only the baptism of repentance as a preparation for the kingdom of God. Paul taught them to believe on Christ, i. e., to receive Him as the One on the cross who had provided redemption for them. When they received Christ, Paul laid hands upon them and they received the Holy Spirit.

II. Paul Preaching in Ephesus (vv. 8-10).

1. In the Jewish Synagogue (v. 8). Though the Jews were Paul's inveterate enemies, his rule was to go to them first with the gospel. His preaching was characterized:

(1) By boldness. He realized that God sent him, and that His authority was back of him.

(2) By reason. God's message is in accord with the highest reason.

(3) By persuasion. It is not enough to come boldly with a reasonable message, it must be accompanied by persuasion.

(4) By speaking, "concerning the kingdom of God." He did not discourse on current events, literature or philosophy, but upon the message of salvation through Christ.

2. In the Schoolhouse of Tyrannus (vv. 9-10).

The Jews, being enemies of the gospel of the grace of God, were only hardened by Paul's earnest preaching. Paul separated the disciples from them and resorted to the schoolhouse of Tyrannus. This was followed with glorious results.

III. God Working Miracles by Paul (vv. 11-16).

Ephesus was noted for its wonder workers. If Paul's ministry was to be successful here, God must in an extraordinary way put His seal upon His work. So wonderfully did He manifest His power that handkerchiefs and aprons brought from Paul's body healed the sick and cast out evil spirits.

IV. A Glorious Awakening (vv. 17-41).

1. Fear Falls Upon All (v. 17). News of the casting out of these evil spirits created impressions favorable to Christianity.

2. It Brought to the Front Those Who Professed Faith in Christ, While Not Living Right Lives (v. 18). They believed but had not broken from sin.

3. Gave Up the Practice of Black Arts (v. 19). This means forms of jugglery by use of charms and magical words. They proved the genuineness of their actions by publicly burning their books.

4. Upstart of the Silversmith at Ephesus (vv. 23-41). (1) The Occasion (vv. 23-24). This was the power of the gospel in destroying the infamous business of Demetrius and his followers. It was clear to them that idolatry was tottering before the power of the gospel.

(2) The Method (vv. 25-29). Demetrius, a leading business man, whose business was the stay of others of a similar nature, called a meeting and stated that much people had been turned from idolatry, and that the market for their wares was materially weakened. He appealed to his followers:

a. On the ground of business, saying: "This, our craft, is in danger of being set at naught," v. 27.

b. On the ground of religious prejudice. He said: "The temple of the great goddess Diana shall be despised" (v. 27). His speech gained his end.

Christianity

Christianity is no mere scheme of doctrine or of ethical practice, but is instead a kind of miracle, a power out of nature and above, descending into it; a historically supernatural movement on the world, that is visibly entered into it, and organized to be an institution in the person of Jesus Christ.—Horace Bushnell.

Giving and Receiving

We live in a world of giving as well as of receiving.—American Friend.

A "personal guarantee" means very little to you, unless you know the man who makes it.

Ninety per cent of the things bought for your home are selected by the lady member of the firm. She is the purchasing agent. Most men admit that she is a capable buyer, and the reason is this: She must be shown — convinced by proof — that an article is what she needs and is worth the price!

For that reason, she sees the advantage of dealing with a local merchant — a man whose "personal guarantee of satisfaction" means just what it says.

She knows that what he advertises in this paper is entitled to her consideration. Because she has confidence in her neighbor — the local dealer — she can safely invest the family funds in what he guarantees.

Era of Good Feeling

The "era of good feeling" in this country is the name given to the period from 1816 to 1824, which was marked by the absence of bitter party strife and the presence of general internal harmony and contentment.
